

SUPPORT TO THE MUNICIPALITIES AFFECTED BY THE INFLUX OF SYRIAN REFUGEES IN JORDAN [PHASE 1]

AICS Amman works jointly with Jordanian Institutions on:

GOVERNANCE

- Support to local municipalities on service delivery
- Support to social cohesion
- Rehabilitation of infrastructures

PROJECT SUMMARY

The “Support to the municipalities affected by the influx of Syrian refugees in Jordan” programme aims to improve the living conditions of the population in the municipalities of Syria’s neighbouring Governorates, namely Mafraq and Irbid, which are particularly affected by the concentration of refugees seeking shelter across the border.

Rehabilitation of infrastructures and improvement of public service interventions are implemented with the twofold objective of supporting Syrian refugees and host communities, as well as enhancing the governance capacity of the Jordanian local authorities to respond to the impact of the Syria crisis.

Interventions are financed through two funding channels: the “Technical Assistance Fund” that is directly managed by the Italian Cooperation, and the “Budget Support Component”, which financed 22 interventions – including 4 complementary projects implemented with residual funds – in 6 municipalities of Mafraq and Irbid governorates.

SECTOR | GOVERNANCE

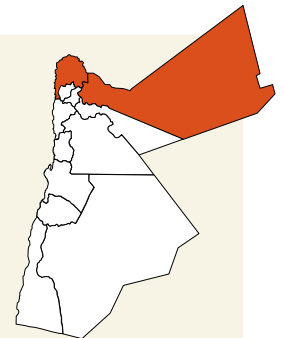

STATUS | COMPLETED

FUNDED IN | 2014

BUDGET | € 1,800,000.00

The initiative endorses the adoption of principles of inclusiveness and participation, as well as ownership, accountability, and transparency. While encouraging the capacity development of local governance actors, it promotes cross-cutting themes such as gender equality, youth empowerment and environmental protection.

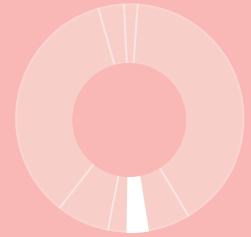

Environmental issues are addressed with a special focus on renewable energy: as of March 2018, photovoltaic systems were installed in 11 schools selected in the Northern governorates.
